TAIWAN'S RESOURCES FOR MANDARIN TEACHERS

BY EDUCATION DIVISION
TECO IN AUSTRALIA

From 20 August, most ACT Public Schools moved to remote learning so did schools in other states. During COVID-19 pandemic, Australian educators have shown resilience to adapt to online teaching through recorded videos, to build timetables, organise resources, and prepare Chromebooks ready for their students.

Reflecting on the lockdowns and the shift to remote learning, the experience amplified the fact that online course demands lots of resources and thoughts on engagements.

We are here to help support your teaching. In this edition, we have selected resources from Taiwan's institutions to support Mandarin teachers' training and professional development through online platforms. In addition, we take you through to Taiwan's cultural institutions and design studio to give you a general idea of what they can offer to assist your class.
